3. Secular Political Parties and Lobby Groups

Reason Australia Party and Reason Victoria

reasonvic.org.au/

Reason is a registered political party both federally and in Victoria. The party has campaigned actively on a number of secular issues, including voluntary assisted dying, marriage equality, tax exemptions for churches, parliamentary prayers and abortion law reform.

Secular Party of Australia

secular.org.au/

As a registered political party, it challenges the power and privilege of religious institutions, including blasphemy law, religious instruction in schools, marriage equality, sex-discrimination and tax exemptions, parliamentary prayers, food labelling and Sharia courts.

National Secular Lobby

nationalsecularlobby.org/

Australia's National Secular Lobby has no formal membership and consists of a team of secular specialists headed by high-profile ambassadors. Ambassadors liaise directly with senior media executives and parliamentarians to help ensure the full separation of Church and State.
